

Monthly Cattle Prices and Basis Levels

Matthew Diersen | SDSU Extension Risk & Business Management Specialist

Effective marketing and risk management techniques often rely on sound benchmarks. Those marketing cattle need reasonable metrics to evaluate received and expected prices. The common prices specific to South Dakota are the fed steer and cull cow prices from Sioux Falls Regional Livestock in Worthing, South Dakota, and the average feeder steer and stocker (5-600#) steer prices from reported sales across South Dakota. Price trends and seasonal patterns are evident when looking across the major classes of cattle in South Dakota (see figure).

Tables 1-11 contain commonly requested cattle prices relevant in South Dakota and surrounding region. The sources are noted for each base series and data were obtained directly from USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) and the CME Group, or as compiled by the Livestock Marketing Information Center (LMIC). Two common benchmarks, the 5-area slaughter steer price and CME Feeder Cattle Index, are also provided. The cash prices for steers across classes are compared to futures prices to show historic basis levels. Such metrics are useful when planning cash flows, evaluating pricing opportunities and negotiating prices.
